

Occupational Therapy:-

Enabling a disabled person to live as safely and actively in their own home is one of the most positive and joyful experiences an Occupational Therapist can ever know.

Watching the smiles on the faces of an elderly Veteran who can now enter their own home via a ramp is a memory I continue to hold dear to my heart.

Observing a person who had difficulty mobilizing or walking due to fatigue or disability taking steps or transferring themselves independently is a vision to behold.

Giving love and warmth to each person that we each meet is something we always need to remind ourselves is the reason we became Occupational Therapists.

Inspiring each person we encounter in need of our service to increase their participation in their lives even something as simple as combing their hair or brushing their teeth is again something that brings warmth and joy to each Occupational Therapist.

Active Rehab Works purpose and mission is to bring independence, skill, joy and meaning to each person it services.

Isobel Kemp.
Occupational Therapist.
Director.
Active Rehab Works P/L.
May 2007.